Legalisation of documents

Requirements to have documents legalised differ from country to country. There are four main country categories (see following list):

A - Documents from these countries do not require legalisation.

B - Documents from these countries do not need a consular/diplomatic stamp from the Italian Embassy, but require an Apostille: In accordance with the Hague Convention 1961, documents issued by local authorities in these countries are exempt from the need to be legalised at the Italian Embassy, but MUST have an Apostille as specified by Art. 6 of the Hague Convention.

C - Students from especially poor countries: For foreign students from especially poor countries (specified in Decree no. 166/2025 of the Ministry of Education, Universities and Research), the evaluation of financial situation is declared by a statement from the Italian representative authority in their country of origin attesting that the student does not belong to a well-known high income family of high social status. This statement can also be issued by the university where the student is enrolled if it has agreements or conventions with Italian universities, or by Italian authorities that are legally authorised to provide guarantees of financial cover for foreign student enrolments in Italian universities. In the latter case, the certifying authority is responsible for paying back the scholarship/bursary on behalf of the student in the case of forfeiture.

D – All countries not in group A, B or C: All students from countries that are not in the above lists must have their official documents legalised by the Italian Embassy or Consulate in their country of origin.

Political refugees

Students with recognised political refugee status do not need to provide any foreign documentation from their country of origin. However, these students must obtain an ISEE statement for the purpose of university bursaries (ISEE for University) regarding their family unit registered in Italy. A copy of the student's certificate of political refugee status must also be attached to the application.
